

HEALEY INVITES ROBERTS AND CENTRACCIO TO A THREE WAY

After rethinking his earlier reluctance to debate, Healey has decided to invite the other candidates to participate in a three way.

“If they are ready to go at each other now, what difference does it make if I am there? Hey, I don’t just want to watch them having all the fun. It would be far more interesting if I participate” said Healey.

Healey had considered not participating in public affairs because of the apathy for the race, but has determined that since they would be taking on each other, why not join in?

“Things are always different in a three way. I had one before with Myrth York and Lincoln Almond. If that wasn’t strange, what is? Sure, I felt a bit uncomfortable, you know, being there when it was obvious that they really wanted to go at each other without me, but, after a few minutes, everyone just let it go and got into it”.

“The more the merrier I always say. It may not be everyone’s election fantasy, but why not? You only go this way once every four years. One on one races may be the norm, but, we’re all grown ups here, why not try something a bit different?”.

“It’s not easy, you know, having to pay attention to two people to make sure that they are getting the requisite attention. And then there is the issue of that awkwardness that occurs after it’s over and the camera is shut off”.

“I think a three way will produce a lasting visual image that people can take with them to the voting booth. Quite frankly, I am quite excited about it and look forward to the mix. I really haven’t been with either of them before in a meaningful way” said Healey.

“A good three way debate is just what Rhode Island needs” he concluded. “I hope they will join me”.